Mistakes Last Zine: M. de Peasant did not have the necessary SL to be a major so he returns to subaltern. M. Danton had 2000 cr. less than was indicated. M. Calais' MP should have read 3 rather than 2 and he belonged to the MR. Everyone check debts to see current status.

M. Grenouille is Pam Holleman's new character and Nikolai Rostov is Harry Burke's new character.

RULES CHANGES, CLARIFICATIONS, ADDITIONS, DELETIONS:

A. From a letter from Eric Olin: "I strongly object to proposed rule re pistol dueling. According to traditional dueling etiquette, the CHALLENGED party - who may or may not be aggrieved - has choice of weapons.

PROPOSAL: Where cause for a duel exists, and one party so orders, he may maneuver the other into issuing a challenge. If both attempt such maneuvering, they both "wimp out" and suffer the appropriate social penalties (as in refusing a duel with cause - King). Otherwise resolve in the following order:

- 1) In a meeting on the doorstep of a mistress, the player currently keeping the mistress issues the challenge.
- 2) Where a titled character challenges a non-titled character of higher SL (p. 15), the titled character will challenge.
- 3) Where regimental enemies meet, the member of the lower status regiment issues the challenge.
- 4) A cavalry officer will challenge an infantry officer.
- 5) A lower title will challenge a higher.
- 6) A lower rank will challenge a higher.
- 7) A lower SL will challenge a higher.
- 8) A higher total expertise will challenge a lower.
- 9) A lower base expertise will challenge a higher.
- 10) Flip roll.

This proposal sounds fine to me and is hereby instituted with the following exception number 1 will become 1) a character holding a grudge will challenge the character against whom he holds the grudge. The others will move down the scale in order.

War News continued: of the terrorists who murdered Cardinal Synne.

Despite heavy losses, the regiment was able to find and destroy the enemy base, garnering a good deal of Italian gold at the same time.

M. d'sle announced that he has, "increased his assault upon the Huguonots to purge the country of their heresy and to preserve the Catholic Church in it's entirety in anticipation of the appointment of a new Cardinal."

Among the Regiments which volunteered this season were the Royal Foot Guards, the King's Musketeers, the Cardinal's Guard, the 1st and 2nd Squadrons of the Dragoon Guards and the 1st Squadron of the Queen's Own Carabiniers. It is rumored that M. Baccarat, of the King's Musketeers was granted permission to remain at home to take advantage of the three month free membership he received from the Jules Verne Health and Jeu de Paume Club where the gentleman spent the entire season practicing his swordsmanship and totally ignored the new Nautilus equipment which is said to be designed to build muscle tone through various underwater exercises. The exercise diet is said to consist of swordfish and mussels exclusively.

M. Poisson was heard to say, "We are pleased to see a new face in the Cardinal's chair. We believe we can have an amicable relationship with the new resident of that chair if he follows a few simple guidelines. First, he should defer to the policies of the King's Party in all matters of State. Secondly, he should assign the Cardinal's Guard Regiment to gardening duties and thirdly he should change the dress code of his guard to include pink plumes in their hats to reflect their new position."

M. l'Editor, I never realized M. Bezukhov was such a good judge of character. Le Moyne calls me coward for one season spent in Paris. ONE SEASON after years of wading through the mud and blood and beer of His Majesty's foes. Before the Army marches in June, I shall await that animal loving whoreson at the Bois de Bologne I shall even bring an instructor in case he doesn't know which end of the weapon to hold. Come on Le Moyne, MAKE MY DAY!

GOVERNMENT OFFICES CHANGE HANDS

Paris (GP) General Lafayette surprised all Paris this season by endorsing Le Marquis Le Moyne for the office of Minister of State, an appointment M. Lafayette had held for two years and which many people thought he would attempt to regain.

With such august support General Le Moyne was quickly accepted while at the same time Messieurs Poisson, Reynard and de Fer were appointed as Minister of War, Minister without Portfolio and Chancellor of the Exchequer respectively.

As a result of the appointments and honors in the field, Messieurs Le Moyne and Poisson became Earls, Monsieur Reynard became a Marquis, Messieurs de Fer and Danton became Barons and Monsieur C. R. O'Magnon became a Knight.

RICHILEAU BECOMES CARDINAL

Paris (GP) As expected, the Pope had named Armand Jean du Plessis, Duc de Richileau, Cardinal to succeed the late lamented Cardinal Synne, who was brutally murdered while on an embassy to the Court of St. Peter at the Vatican.

CHANGING LEADERSHIP IN KING'S PARTY

Paris (GP) The leadership of the King's Party changed hands at the begining of April when M. Calieu Calais was elected President over incumbent, Earl Poisson. The Earl, who was the first President of the party, ran a close race but eventually lost to popular Calais.

Baron Danton, who had formerly been the Secretary of the party, o was elected to the post of treasurer. In his acceptance speech, Le Chevalier Calais indicated that his election would, "free M. Poisson to pursue important government positions" General Poisson was unavailable for comment.

WAR NEWS

The Front (GP) In Field Operations, the Frontier Regiments including the Royal North Highland Border Regiment made a wide sweep of suspected Huguenot strongholds with great success. Despite mediocre results by many vounteer regiments the Army, again under the leadership of General Lafayette, rounded up many suspected terrorist leaders and put them to the sword. General de Fer, leading the Royal North Highlanders, personally led charge after charge, impressing the King sufficiently to be named Field Marshall. The Ministers of State and War have announced that the entire Army will conduct an assault next season.

Unfortunately Messrs. Calais and d'Isle were reprimanded for poor judgement and were warned that more mistakes would result in demotions.

M. d'Isle did dispatch his Swiss mercenaries to Italy to attack the suspected stronghold (cont. Pg. 2)

ROYAL INFANT NAMED DUKE OF YORK - BOMBAY FLEET RETURNS LED BY NEAPOLITAN YACHT - CHURCH CRACKDOWN CATCHES LONDONERS OFF GUARD - HAMBONE GIVEN SCOTS POST - MALDANADO INDICTED FOR FRAUD, FLEES

The January meeting of the Privy Council's "star" participant was two month-old Prince James, who was created Duke of York and whisked off to St Paul's Cathedral for baptism at the hands of Archbishop Laud. The young duke cried lustily throughout both ceremonies.

But not even a royal ceremony could rival the spectacle that greeted dockside workers at Plymouth in late January, where a returning fleet is hardly unusual. However, when that fleet is full of unshaven Irish soldiers wearing turbans and is led by a gaudy green and red yacht (the "Acqua Capra"), piloted by a man in the uniform of a Turkish admiral (H. Hornblower), even the most jaded of porthounds will sit up and take notice.

Off one of the men o'war stepped one-eyed "Fighting Fitz" O'Connor, who proceeded immediately to London, the arms of his long-time amour Lady patricia, and a baronetcy from a grateful monarch. But if Lady Pat expected much romance, she was disappointed, as the Field Marshal spent the rest of the month fencing and negotiating for a foreign command. The best offer apparently has come from Count Luigi Carnesecca di San Giovanni, who is said to have offered O'Connor five thousand quid if he can capture Villanueva Castle before the leaves fall.

From Ireland come reports of a dismal season in the field, with Lord Deputy Hendon unable to locate any stocks of contraband. Despite this, Hendon was breveted Lt. General, and new artillery officer Simon Templar was breveted Lt. Colonel, although his men can hardly have been pleased with no plunder after a winter pushing heavy cannons about Ireland.

REAL ESTATE REPORT: Capt. Horatio Hornblower has purchased Lyme House, a fine old waterfront estate on Lyme Bay. Hornblower's manservant, Bhilkhon is said to have steered the captain to a different estate agent at the last minute...Brig. Sir Herbert Hambone, the new Secretary of State for Scotland, has purchased the old Stoke Moran estate in Surrey.

Despite the new treaty with Spain to suppress Caribbean piracy, Cdre Mark "Stormy" Weathers' flotilla is still lost in the vicinity of Bermuda. A Spanish small-craft squadron is now also overdue, according to Spanish naval attache Commodore Mendez.

NAVAL NOTES: Lt. Mark Addlebury, FCRPS, was greatly disappointed with Whitehall's decision against using naval vessels for Arctic exploration, and has turned his researches to toxicology, much to the dismay of his family, who have hardly seen him of late...Capt. Hornblower has been assigned to command of the frigate HMS Flaming Sword...Admiralty's star at Whitehall continues to fall as the Carib fleet will be "mothballed" upon its return.

Both Capt. Hornblower and Cmdr. Lord Harrison Burke met on the doorstep of Lady Sarah Caethion in February, where cutlasses were drawn and dire threats exchanged. It is not known whether a duel will take place, as the Lady is reported to have said, "My heart will belong to the man who brings my husband's murderer to justice!" Despite this statement, Lady Caethion was seen out with Capt. Hornblower, while Burke was left to drunkenness, bawdyhouses, and a minor French ailment.

LEGAL NOTES: Capt. Byron Bismarck, on medical leave from Ireland, was not so badly hurt as to keep him away from law dinners at Middle Temple...Patrick Fogger, new clerk to Judge John DeFuer, has published a commentary on Jaundice and Jaundice in the Irish Law Journal.

Dr. Quacksawyer Bones successfully treated the elderly Earl of Maidenhead for coryza, but his waiting room is still full of harlots. The doctor also won large sums at the tables of the Mermaid Club.

WANTED: Arthur "Banana-Nose" Maldanado, alias A. Maldanado, alias Sir John Cleese, alias Linus van Pelt. Maldanado was indicted by a Devonshire grand jury on February 15, 1634 for fraud, larceny, forgery and adverse dispossession. He has not been seen since and a reward of five hundred pounds has been offered for his capture. Maldanado is five foot one inch, weighs 16 stone and has a nose "as big a Yorkshire" according to eyewitnesses. He was last seen boarding the stage for London.

Jules Kennedy's new character is Simon Templar. (17 Dogwood Lane, Westport, CT 06880)

NOTES FROM THE JOURNAL OF THE ROYAL ZOOLOGIST SOCIETY- edited by LORD HARRISON BURKE, SPRING 1836

NOTE: all items in this column are RUMOR, therefore they subject to error. No piece of information may be considered accurate until published by the explorer upon return Europe.

--IN EUROPE

ROBERT ROBERT driven by the desire to return to Africa to fulfill the quest of the late Humbert Humbert, takes the ticket to capetown and runs. He will arrive in Capetown this turn. It is believed that he will organize an expedition and head into the wilderness as soon as possible. Visions of loneliness can drive men to do many foolish things, but Robert knows that he overcame any hardships the African wilderness can throw at him for he has his Swiss Army Watch at his side.

The MOLASSES and SORGHUM PHARMACEUTICAL INSTITUTE is conducting an expensive search to come up with the right man to replace the late Dr. Hypo Guy Cemla. A syndicate spokesperson commented that "it is not an easy task to replace such a great explorer as the Good Doctor." She went on to say "it is not everyday that you find someone that has the passion for bon-bons that man had. There are few foods in the world that have the same potential to save mankind, as bon-bons do. Unless its jelly-babies." At that point a smile came to her face and she has not been heard, since except to say the "search continues."

— IN AFRICA

COL. LLEWELLYN BALDERDASH has arrived in Mombassa to begin his expedition. The Welsh explorer brought with him several strange musical instruments, the gift of M. Adolphe Sax of Brussels. The Colonel wishes to see if the natives might have some aptitude for these "sax-o-phones." Thus begins the search for the fabulous Walking Tree of Dabaomey.

DAVID CROCHIT stops in this hex to find a specimen animal. He knows that there must a "critter" to shoot, here. Isn't that why he came to Africa. But to his dismay, even though his bearers are able to flush out of the bushes for a few specimen anima, which provide Davey with some sport they do not bring an spectacular kills. Each of the hunters obtain one ration each for the expedition. He dismiss a bearer.

PROFESSOR JOSEPH R. O'CONNELL vowing that this is the last time that he will ever buy used bearers. "all you ever hear is complaints about heavy loads and sore backs" comments the Professor as he decides to cache his canoes and move on and complete the journey to Mombassa on foot. He moves into hex 109, which he discovers is a veldt hex. His hunters provide the expedition with 1 ration. This the most exciting thing that happens in the hex. He decides to dismiss one bearer.

VASCO de SECTAMI realizing that is now the right time to proceed to the Ogoue and follow it towards its source, caches 114 rations and 57 gifts and moves on. He stays in published territory traveling through hex 233, jungle hex published by Cemla and hex 256, a veldt hex also published by Cemla. Rereading the journals of late explorer Twombly, published several hex in the area in his first trip to Africa. He knows that he soon be at the Ogoue and be able to begin the assault. His hunters find game plentiful, 3 rations each.

MR. RA MBO takes a short rest to think about what his move will be. After a bout with the task of thinking he decides that "a man gotta do what a man gotta do." But this pleasant his thought is interrupted by the arrival of 12 scouts from a slaving party on the site. But Ra using all his skills is able to avoid capture and melt into the jungle to fight another day..

THE REVEREND RUFUS BEAUEGARD FIREFLY remains in hex 273 and continues to preach the doctrine of manifest destiny. He trades 9 gifts for 45 rations. Firefly offers to several his bearers to the chief slaver but receives only laughter in return. The slavers will no longer wish to do with a man who keeps such poor slaves. His hunter obtain 1 ration each when hunting.

ALFRED H. McGUFFIN heads in direction 4 into hex 202, but is confronted with a lake and must retreat after failing to find natives to guide him across it and to walk across it. His hunters manage to acquire two rations each for the expedition, this turn.

LADY CAROLINE NELSON continues to follow the Vaal river, downstream in direction 2 into hex 620, which she discovers is a desert hex. The river flows in direction 4 into hex 631. Her hunter are unable to find any rations this turn. She now believes that she will soon be in the Cape Colony.

ORTE'GO de DAGO heads east believing that he will soon be the first man to make an epic crossing of Africa. He first buys 42 gifts and dismisses 25 bearers. His expedition moves in direction 2 into hex 553, which is a desert hex. Hunters are unable to find food or water. Dago continues on knowing that he has not come this far to die in the desert. He knows that will survive and be the first to cross Africa.

PRESS:(Endgame Statements-1984HC)

ITALY(John Pack): I'd like to thank Earl for running this game and Steve Cartier for making the whole game. This game, as in many others I've played, was hinged mostly on who was willing to spend time writing. My initial strategy in the game was to join a A/R alliance and destroy the Turks; however, in the Fall 1901, lacking correspondence from Austria and Russia, I allied myself with the Turks and stabbed the Austrians. Austria was furious and wrote the following "Sorry about writing you two times((O that turn actually)) to Turkey's three times. Quality means more to me than quantity. This is the first time I've been back stabbed the first fall and never when an A/I alliance was involved. Such is life. Please refer to "The Gamer's Guide to DIP", PG 16, middle column, bottom para. Ref: It/Tur "An alliance with Turkey is not impossible. Stupid, yes; Impossible, no." Your build and spring move will determine the validity of that quote." And so, I dedicate my victory to Joe Cunningham (Austria at the time). Personally, I don't hold the Gamer's Guide as Scripture, and I'd suggest that people adhere to it a little less. I also disagree with the Quality/Quantity bit; a quality postcard once every year or so doesn't hold against even a trashy one every season. I remain convinced that a letter or two to every one in the game each season is the most important principle to doing well in a Dip game. Fortunately, during the next few seasons, I fairly well eliminated Austria. Turkey, who was busy with the Russians, didn't get anything out of the deal. I still can't believe that all my letters to Russia never managed to bring a reply. In S'04, with the help of a standby Austrian Ally, I plunged the knife deep into Turkey's back. He never recovered. A turn later, I attacked the Russians since their silence left me feeling that I couldn't count on anything from them. A few NMRs later and a whole new set of players, I struck out west to keep the English from annihilating France and getting into the Med. By 1905 I'd decided to go for the win alone since I had no ally worthy of a draw(i.e., one who was doing well and keeping up correspondence). The English(I believe) attempted a "stop-the-leader" alliance, but apparently, it has failed miserably. In fact, I don't believe I could've been stopped since the time the concessions were proposed(the first by England, I believe). In fact, I expect that I'll have won by several more centers than needed when the results are out. I congratulate England for overcoming the French (especially when it looked like it was going the other way). I attribute my victory mostly to the stalemate wars between F/E and T/R, which I helped to fuel, of course. The most perplexing thing was the action/inaction of the German player(s), which helped me a lot. Even as the game closed, many of the players seem to be fighting in a burning house. Don't tell me they didn't see this win coming... I'd like to thank my Turkish ally for sticking with me to the end. Thanx Derek!

Anyway, Earl, thanx for running the game. I'd suggest that you modify your HRs to allow unit which is unordered (NMR) and dislodged to retreat. It adds even more to the injury caused by an NMR this way (and encourages more NMRs). In addition, standbys permitting, I'd recommend calling a standby after one NMR and letting him take over upon a second NMR (that way fewer NMRs would effect the game). Anyway it's an idea.
